Valmeyer strangled

By Bill Winter
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The community of Valmeyer has suffered considerable economic consequences since being declared an unprotected floodplain area and a local group hopes the same thing doesn't happen here.

The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) will not allow any residential, commercial or industrial development in this area if it becomes an unprotected floodplain, according to Valmeyer resident Harry Reichert, one of three members of the Monroe County Board. Reichert outlined problems encountered in Valmeyer, which since 1985 has been designated as unprotected.

Avoidance of such a designation here hinges on voter approval of a $31 million project on the Feb. 23 ballot, said Col. James E. Corbin, St. Louis district engineer. The Metro East Sanitary District (MESD) election is being conducted to provide the local share for mainly federally-financed improvements.

"Do whatever you have to do to keep your levee system certified," Reichert said in asking that his comments be relayed to MESD voters. "If you lose that certification, you're in deep trouble."

"To avoid flood insurance rates of 10 percent of the value of insured property — $4,000 a year on a $40,000 home, for example — our county board and Valmeyer had to pass a resolution denying any permits for new buildings in Valmeyer and the Harrisonville Drainage District," he said.

FEMA wrote the resolution. "For more than three years, getting any new businesses in this area has been impossible," Reichert said. "I hope your effort in the Metro East Sanitary District succeeds."

"As chairman of the eight-county Southwestern Illinois Corridor Council, I can tell you there are people out there who are ready to take your industry away from you."

Jim Broadway, campaign director for Citizens for Flood Protection, an organization based in Granite City, agreed that the entire MESD area faces economic strangulation whether there is flooding or not, unless voters allow the flood protection system to be upgraded.

Dennis Knobloch, executive vice president of the Farmers State Bank in Valmeyer, said Monday, "We've been under FEMA's thumb for more than three years. There hasn't been one new house constructed since that time. "To build under FEMA regulations, a new Valmeyer building must be on 14-foot stilts or must be built open-ended, so that flood waters can go in one end and out the other."

"Foster Pond Industries, manufacturer of shoe accessories with an 85-person payroll, wanted to expand but couldn't do so, due to FEMA."

"Instead, the company expanded in Marissa, a few miles away from Valmeyer, and Valmeyer is worried that the whole plant may leave in the future."

Reichert said Mississippi River levee deterioration in the Harrisonville District of Monroe County would require $1 million to $10 million to repair — funds that are not available to that area from the United States government.

"There has been no federal grant that we can obtain," he said. Federal funds totaling $23 million are available to western Madison and St. Clair counties, but will be allocated to other areas of the nation if there is a negative vote by MESD residents Feb. 28, the Corps Col. Corbin has said.

Fatal car crash goes unreported

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

MITCHELL — A state trooper is critical of a witness who failed to report a single-car accident that killed a Granite City man Sunday night.

The victim, Michael P. Kawula, 39, of the 3900 block of Village Lane, died when the car he was driving left a ramp leading from eastbound Interstate 270 onto Illinois 203 North and wound up upside down in a drainage culvert with six feet of mud and icy water in it.

The accident happened at about 11 p.m., while sleet was falling, but it wasn't discovered until about 9 a.m. Monday when a motorist flagged down State Trooper Marty Milkovich. The car was about 30 feet off the roadway and not easily visible from the highway.

A man who resides in a house trailer on West Chain of Rocks Road told a Madison County Sheriff's deputy Monday morning that he heard the accident and saw the car in the water but didn't call anybody for help.

"He he didn't see anybody get out of the car so he went to bed," Milkovich said.

Milkovich was angry with the witness for not reporting the accident. "If he had called somebody right away, this guy might still be alive," Milkovich said.

However, Milkovich said he didn't think the witness could be charged with anything. Madison County State's Attorney Bill Haine could not be reached for comment.

"Nobody says you gotta help somebody," Milkovich said. When Kawula's body was recovered, it was part way out of the broken passenger window, suggesting that he may have been unbelted in the crash itself but drowned in the icy water while struggling to escape. The cause of death could not be immediately determined from an autopsy performed Monday, said Madison County Coroner Dallas Burke. (See FATALITY, Page 10A)

Long-awaited reunion follows airborne scare

By Dennis Grubaugh
Managing editor

GRANITE CITY — The last time Ann Wilson saw her sister, both women were waving to each other from a train platform across the German countryside marked off the date as Christmas Eve, 1954.

Margarete Berg was staying, her sister leaving. Neither realized what they would have to face before they saw each other again.

Both went about their busy lives, doing the things that most young women do — raising children, struggling to make ends meet.

Ann ended up in Granite City. As a war bride, she had followed her heart from her native land and ended up with her husband, James, stationed at the city's Army depot.

Margarete and her husband Fritz raised four children in the coal country of Herne, near Essen and Düsseldorf. Many times she thought about her sister in America, but going to visit her always seemed impossible for financial and time reasons. Margarete also had an inherent fear of flying.

By 1988, their lives meshed. The children were raised, and both women had become widows. Time was more available. With the urging of family and friends, Margarete shook off her fear-of-flying mantle and decided, finally, she was going to America.

This began one of the most unsettling episodes of both women's lives.

Fog had rolled into Chicago shortly before the Dec. 25 arrival of the Lufthansa flight carrying Margarete Berg. Shaky passengers were keeping their eyes on the fog bank when they received more bad news from the plane's pilot: The craft's wheels had locked, and there would be a troubled landing.

To Berg, the anxiety level aboard the flight was apparent, but the reasoning behind it was not. The pilot's announcement and all passenger discussion were in English. Berg spoke only German.

What turned out to be a few-minute scare seemed more like a bomb to the sister of Ann Wilson. But things quickly worked themselves out. Somehow, the wheels became dislodged and the pilot, realizing that ground conditions were unsafe in Chicago, directed the flight to Detroit, where a bumpy landing was all that resulted.

"When they landed everybody was clapping and thanking the captain for bringing the plane down safely," Berg said.

Wilson, who had gone to Lambert International Airport in St. Louis to greet her sister, found out (See REUNION, Page 10A)

Top women nominations due Feb. 24

Granite City area residents have one week remaining to submit nominations for 1988 Women of Achievement.

The program annually honors 10 women who — through their contributions in either a volunteer or professional capacity — have made a difference in their community. It is sponsored by the Suburban Journals and KMOX-AM (1120).

"The quality of this year's nominees is extremely high," said Tom Birkenmeier, director of promotion and public relations for the Journal.

"We have a lot of very competent people who have already been nominated and I'm getting 10 to 15 calls a day from people who are interested in receiving more information about nominating someone they feel should be a Woman of Achievement."

Letters of nomination will be accepted through Feb. 24. They should be less than two pages in length and describe the nominee's qualifications, accomplishments and community impact.

Nominating letters must include the nominee's full address and telephone number as well as the name and telephone number of the writer.

Letters should be addressed to Women of Achievement, Suburban Journals, 1714 Deer Tracks Trail, St. Louis, Mo. 63131.

While letters containing all the pertinent facts are important, so are what Birkenmeier calls the "shoulder to shoulder" letters.

"These act as seconding letters for the nomination," he said.

"They come from people who have worked closely or 'shoulder to shoulder' with the nominee in her various activities and they give us personal insights. It's through these letters that her personality starts to develop."

Selection of the 1988 honorees will be made by a committee of community leaders from all parts of the metropolitan area.

The 1988 Women of Achievement will be honored, along with past Women of Achievement, at a luncheon on May 17 at the Omni International Hotel at Union Station. Women of Achievement was established in 1985 by the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Reviews and previews

BAC redistricting may be on hold

State Rep. Sam Wolf, D-Granite City, has introduced a bill in the Illinois General Assembly that would postpone the redistricting of the BAC district until 1991. Voters have approved electing one member from each subdistrict, rather than districtwide. Wolf said if boundaries were drawn now, they would have to be redrawn a year later to use 1990 census data.

Maynard Ferguson to appear

Jazz and trumpet great Maynard Ferguson will appear at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 21 in the Granite City High School auditorium. The concert will include the performance of the "Rocky" theme, with the GCJHS Jazz Band as Ferguson's guest on stage. Tickets are $10 in advance or will be $12 at the door. Tickets are available from Dennis Meyer at the high school, 3101 Madison Ave.

Tax help at Branch Library

Free help in preparing income tax returns is being offered at the Granite City Branch Library for all area residents, especially low-income people, the elderly and the disabled. A member of VITA (Volunteer Income Tax Assistance) will be at the Branch Library, 2145 Johnson Road, every Thursday from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m.

Costello helps block raise, but has praise for Wright

By Edward T. Hearn
PRJ Washington bureau

WASHINGTON — U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello last week almost got a whopping pay raise that he didn't want in the first place. But, after some parliamentary maneuvering, the Belleville Democrat was finally allowed to help defeat the "salary grab."

For weeks, Washington had been gripped by the growing national opposition, building against the 51 percent pay increase recommended by a special commission and endorsed by two presidents, Reagan and Bush.

Much of the public's ire was directed at House Speaker Jim Wright, the Texas Democrat who said he wanted the raise to become law without a vote by the House.

He dealt an embarrassing setback when the House refused to adjourn on Feb. 8; the adjournment would have delayed consideration until the raise would have become law. Wright took to the House floor and promised a vote the following day.

"I think he did the right thing by calling the vote," said Costello, who joined the overwhelming majority of the House in killing the raise Feb. 7 by a vote of 380-48. The Senate vote the same day was 94 to 6.

Costello said he "didn't think Wright's leadership was in jeopardy because the pay raise fizzle."

"(Wright) has taken a lot of heat but I don't think his leadership is on the ropes," Costello said.

"It was a tough call for the leadership. Many of the senior members were in favor of the pay raise."

After lopsided House and Senate votes, President Bush cemented the formal demise of the pay hike by signing the congressional joint resolution in time to meet the midnight Tuesday deadline.

The pay plan for Congress called for boosting the annual salary from $89,500 to $135,000. More than 1,300 federal judges and top executive branch officials were in line for equally hefty hikes.

The pay raise was steeped in controversy from the start. The commission chairman, former Carter White House counsel Lloyd Cutler, said good people were leaving government for the private sector. Congressmen, he said, had the added burden of maintaining two homes. Higher salaries were required, he opined.

Opponents were less diplomatic than Cutler. Consumer activist Ralph Nader, outraged by the fact that the pay raise would have gone into effect automatically Feb. 8 if Congress did nothing, bluntly called it a "salary grab" and verbally bashed Wright and Minority Leader Bob Michel at every turn.

In the pay raise debate on the House floor, congressional opponents said they failed to see how scrapping the raise could translate into a victory for the American people.

"There are some who will portray our actions here as a triumph of the will of the people. It is a loss for the concept of leadership," said Rep. Tony Coelho of California, majority whip.

Coelho, an architect of the plan to let the pay raise become law without a vote, lashed out at critics for "shortsighted" policy positions and blamed the machinations of Nader for scuttling the raise.

"This vote is the political equivalent of walking past a $100 bill on the floor of the bus station. The temptation to bend down and pick it up can't be resisted," Coelho said on the House floor.

"The score is easy to read: Ralph Nader, one; the national interest, zero."

Also sticking up for the pay raise was Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Chicago, chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, who said he was outraged by the attacks on congressmen for seeking higher pay that they merited.

"In the last week, I've heard about as much as I can stomach," he said. "It's high time we stop whipping ourselves. Each member of this House, Democratic and Republican, is worth a salary of $135,000."

Costello, who heard Rostenkowski call for a raise, said his Illinois colleague made a lot of valid points.

"Many of the members, in my judgment, who voted against the pay raise really felt it was justified but voted against it because of the sentiment they were hearing in the district from their constituents."

From the 22-member Illinois congressional delegation, only four lawmakers voted for the raise. They were Rostenkowski, Rep. Charles Hayes, D-1st, Rep. Gus Savage, D-2nd, and Rep. John Edward Porter, R-10th.

Neck, Shoulder, and Arm Pain

Neck, shoulder, and arm pain often starts with no more than a stiff neck. Generally located at the base of the neck, the stiffness becomes pain. then this pain locates itself in the shoulder and finally into the arm.

The shoulder might be affected for some time before the arm gets involved. But gradually the arm falls victim, with muscle atrophy and paralysis the end results. This all started with a stiff neck, but slow, steady deterioration will take its toll. Don't take a chance... Pick up the telephone NOW...and make an appointment with...

Army tracking members of Ready Reserve force

By Craig Martin
Staff affiliate

ST. LOUIS — The U.S. Army encourages its soldiers to "be all that you can be." This year what the army wants most from men and women in one of its branches is to "be" available.

That is because the Army is taking an inventory of sorts of its Individual Ready Reserve, the nation's largest pool of pre-trained manpower. The inventory began in early 1988.

To date, more than 172,000 of the 300,000 IRR reservists have been contacted and screened by the Army, resulting in more than 215,000 changes to the Army's personnel records.

People in the IRR are former active or reserve Army members who still owe varying years of service to the Army. As of Feb. 1, there were 5,880 IRR members in the St. Louis area, according to Army figures.

"It is essential that our knowledge of IRR manpower and the physical condition and military qualifications of its members be accurate and up-to-date," said Maj. Gen. William F. Ward, chief of the Army Reserve in Washington, D.C.

The IRR accounts for about 15 percent of the total Army force. In the event of a national emergency, IRR personnel may be recalled to active duty to fill positions critically needed to bring the Army to wartime strength.

A large number of those that have been contacted by the Army have been surprised to find that they still have time left on their service obligation, Ward said.

"Amazingly, though, most of those are not at all hostile about being called. Surprised, yes, but not mad or frustrated usually," he said.

A large number of those in the IRR have been participants in the 2-2-4 Program, Ward said.

"That's an option the Army offers where you spend two years in active Army, two years in regular reserve and four years in the IRR," he said.

"The Army offers special incentives and bonuses to those on the plan. It has been quite popular."

The screening process is especially important now.

"The population, especially among younger people, is extremely mobile in this day and age," Ward said. "It is vitally important that we try to keep up with the moves of our reservists."

Members of the IRR are being called for the screening according to the month of their birth. About four to six weeks before an IRR member's birth month, official military orders to report are being sent to them telling them of the screening.

Shortly thereafter, specific instructions are sent explaining which recruiting office is nearest to them, and members are told to call and set up an appointment with a recruiter.

The screening takes about an hour, and those screened are given a full day's pay for their trouble.

The status of the reserve is as good as it ever has been, largely due to the screening process, Ward said.

"In absolute terms, the reserve today is the most ready it has ever been," he said. "The information obtained from the screening will play an essential role in improving readiness even more."

Spock says child care 'outrageous'

By Mary Schirmer
Staff affiliate

ST. LOUIS — The lack of adequate day care in the United States is "absolutely outrageous" and a major stress factor in family life today, child care expert Dr. Benjamin Spock said during a recent stop here.

"I believe the government should subsidize parents who prefer to stay at home to take care of their preschool children," Spock said.

Spock, 85, was in St. Louis Feb. 5 to address a session of the Working Women's Survival Show at the Cervantes Convention Center. The noted pediatrician is the author of six child care books, including Baby and Child Care.

Day care programs could be sponsored with funds now used for defense and industry tax relief, Spock said.

"I think it would be good for industries, particularly large ones, to provide their own day care," he said.

"Half of all mothers of preschool children are now working outside the home," Spock said.

"I think women have just as much right to a career as men do, but nobody has figured out in a satisfactory way who is going to take care of the children."

For mothers with custody of the children, strained finances cause difficulties, he said.

"Women still earn less than 60 percent of what men get," Spock said.

St. Clair ponders plan to build more courtrooms in courthouse

BELLEVEILLE — Four first-floor offices in the St. Clair County Courthouse will be moved if a proposed renovation plan for the Courthouse becomes a reality, the Journal has learned.

Tentative plans call for relocating the offices of the assessor, mapping and platting, the Board of Review and the recorder of deeds to the fifth floor to make room for the construction of additional courtrooms on the first floor, said County Administrator Dan Maher on Monday.

"We would also move the (fifth-floor) law library down to the first floor," Maher said.

The relocated offices would take over space formerly occupied by the County Probation Department, which moved its offices to 11 W. Lincoln St. about three months ago, said Eugene Compton, chairman of the county's Public Building Commission.

Maher said additional courtrooms are needed to handle the court system's increased case load, as well as space for two new judges appointed in recent months.

Currently, there are 18 courtrooms in the courthouse, eight are on the third floor and 10 are on the fourth floor. Maher said a lawyer's lounge already has been converted into a courtroom for one of the new judges.

Maher said the renovation plan might also include the expansion of the State's Attorney's office, located on the second floor, and the Circuit Clerk's office, located on the third floor.

Correction

Madison 3rd Ward Alderman John Hamm was wrongly identified as having seconded a motion by 2nd Ward Alderman Ron Grzywacz to table consideration of an anti-obscenity ordinance at the Feb. 7 Madison City Council meeting; 2nd Ward Alderman Richard Asperger seconded the motion. Hamm said he called for the question on the motion in an effort to halt a debate on the issue, his action apparently was similar in intent to the tabling and seconding. Hamm favors adoption of the ordinance.

Valmeyer

(Continued from Page 1A) Madison and St. Clair counties, nearly $6 million would be paid by local taxpayers. Slightly over $1 million a year for five years, $1.2 million would be counted in the form of rights-of-way to government-owned land, and $800,000 would be provided by the state government.

Although the federal funds can be obtained only if local voters approve, we are still hearing some negative talk as the election day draws near," Broadway said Monday.

"Some people believe FEMA would never take action against us, because that would bring the local economy to a standstill. But it is a fact, as the Valmeyer area has learned."

"We must not allow the MESD territory to be declared an unprotected floodplain, as has happened in part of Monroe County."

Citizens for Flood Protection (CFP) was created by the Leadership Council of southwestern Illinois and the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce to help acquaint the public with the threat to lives, property, jobs, tax base and home values that would result from rejection of the renovation project, Broadway said.

"CFP supports passage on Feb. 28 of the MESD Flood Protection Question which will be on the ballot throughout the Sanitary District."

"Twenty-six cents per $100 valuation would be authorized in an area where 200,000 persons live, work and raise their families. The increase would cost the owner of a $60,000 home about $1 per week for five years. The owner of a $30,000 home would pay 50 cents a week. Industries would carry the lion's share of the burden."

"This money is necessary as a partially-matching amount in order to utilize the federal and state grants."

"The $31 million project is to be carried out by the Army Corps of Engineers to rehabilitate our flood protection system, which the Engineer District has rated as unsatisfactory."

"This unsatisfactory rating is the preliminary step to imposing FEMA regulations. A second unsatisfactory rating, which will be issued if the election fails, would trigger action by FEMA."

"If the renovation project is not done, our area must be declared unprotected and FEMA will have to prohibit lending institutions from financing any industrial, commercial or residential development. Homes could not be bought or sold, except for full cash payment."

"On a much larger scale than in Monroe County, we would be in the same boat as Valmeyer. Our 'economy' would be destroyed," Broadway said.

Knobloch said that "despite public meetings, petition drives and meetings with legislators and congressmen there has been no federal aid for the Valmeyer area."

"We'd be more than happy to try to come up with some local funding to get out from under the FEMA rules regarding stills and open-ended buildings, but no grants are available and home values have fallen," he said.

G.I. Joe at 25 survives despite mood swings

By Thomas Kuhn
staff affiliate

A doll for boys?
Critics laughed. "Real boys in 1964 aren't going to play with dolls," they said.

But 25 years ago, Hasbro, Inc. of Pawtucket, R.I., shocked the American International Toy Fair in New York with a line of four "military action figures" and accessories.

G.I. Joe was the first "doll" for boys, and the basic model would cost $2.32 out of the Sears catalog.

And although G.I. Joe in its present incarnation bears very little resemblance to its ancestor of 1964, the name and image have overcome a myriad of challenges, various social upheavals and even the oil shortage of the late 1970s, to remain at the forefront of the toy market.

In the volatile world of toy marketing, where survival depends on the whims of children and companies routinely change half of their product lines annually, experts agree that a quarter century in the limelight is unheard of, outside of a few board games and the "Barbie" doll.

G.I. Joe was the brainchild of New York-based businessman/inventor, Stan Weston, who contacted Hasbro in 1963 with the idea for a "doll" for boys that would be a more lifelike version of the age-old toy soldier.

"I had seen the success of Barbie and I figured that a boy's doll, that could be posed with a machine gun, would do just as well," said Weston, now 55, and running Leisure Concepts, Inc., a licensing and product development firm in New York.

He said he went to Hasbro with an idea and a $35 investment in miniature flags and military ribbons displayed on poster board.

Hasbro refined the plan and negotiated with Weston, offering him a 1 percent royalty on future sales or a one-time payment of $100,000, Weston said.

Just days before the 1964 Toy Fair, he agreed to the latter, a decision that has cost him dearly. In G.I. Joe's 25-year life span, sales have amounted to $1.2 billion, $17 million coming in the first year.

But Weston insists he has no regrets, chalking it all up to experience.

"I haven't had one moment of frustration over my decision. I made what I thought was a great deal at that time in my life," Weston said.

G.I. Joe marched into the toy world as a fully posable, 11½-inch plastic doll, with representations of all four branches of the military. Each figure came with the basic uniform and dog tags, with many additional accessories available as well.

For the next few years, Hasbro continued to expand G.I. Joe's military ties, adding more uniforms, vehicles and equipment, as well as a whole new line of foreign and black soldiers, said Benjamin Massie of St. Louis, who has one of the nation's largest collections of G.I. Joe figures and paraphernalia.

But the late '60s and early '70s were a bad time to try to sell war, with the Vietnam protests focusing attention on the negative aspects of the military, so G.I. Joe was honorably, and quietly, discharged into the private sector, Massie said.

He said the emphasis shifted from the military to more adventurous themes, as G.I. Joe was sent out hunting abominable snowmen, white tigers and sharks.

By the early '70s there wasn't a military influence to be found in G.I. Joe and his "Adventure Team," Massie said.

Again, the forces of societal pressure came to bear in the mid-'70s, as environmentalists protested the hunting of endangered species. G.I. Joe moved into the worlds of espionage, search and rescue and battling intergalactic aliens, Massie said.

In 1978, Hasbro sent G.I. Joe into early retirement. With skyrocketing oil prices, it was just too expensive to put out the big figures, since oil is the main ingredient in the plastic used for the dolls, said Hasbro Associate Vice President Wayne Charness.

Massie said the burgeoning popularity of 4-inch action figures, like Kenner's "Star Wars" collection, which cost much less than G.I. Joe, also played a major part in the decision to give Joe his discharge.

Apparently Hasbro was paying attention. In the spring of 1982, G.I. Joe made his triumphant return, as a 16-member force of 3¼-inch, fully posable figures. A comic book and animated television show were not far behind.

G.I. Joe, himself, never made it back as a figure, but he will re-join the fight, against the forces of evil, in the 25th anniversary comic book, Charness said.

The toys are again military in nature but have been very carefully designed to have an enemy that won't offend anyone, while they wage their futuristic battles, said Chris Mursell, owner of CRM Hobbies in St. Louis.

Charness said the ability to evolve is just a part of sound business strategy. "You make a diverse product line, to keep it fresh, so it lasts," he said. "Even today, we turn over 50 percent of our figures every year, because once a kid gets bored with a toy, it's dead."

Grandparents find child-raising rules not same anymore

By Lois Kendall
Staff affiliate

ST. LOUIS — First-time grandparents routinely exhibit enough pride to "bust the buttons" of the entire U.S. Navy. They can't wait to hold and cuddle the new little bundle. Memories of their own children's births come flooding back from 20 or more years before.

Today, women remain active throughout the nine months of pregnancy, husbands accompany their wives in the delivery room and cloth diapers are no longer "de rigueur."

Barnes Hospital is offering a class for prospective grandparents to ease the adjustment to childbirth in the '80s. The first class will be from 10 a.m. to noon Saturday, Jan. 21, at the hospital. Expectant parents are welcome to attend along with the grandparents, and the cost is $10 per family group.

Participants are asked to register in advance.

Pam Lesser developed and teaches the class.

"When a woman today becomes pregnant, just as in the past, her whole extended family is important to the process," Lesser says. "But pregnancy, childbirth and infancy is done differently today from 20 to 30 years ago. The kids, the pregnancy hasn't changed, but the information and philosophies have."

"Grandma still is looked to for information and she feels it is important to play that role, but conflict arises when grandma says one thing and the doctor says another," Lesser says.

The intent of the grandparenting class, she says, is to give grandparents current information on childbearing and infancy, while helping them recognize their own value as part of the extended family and as resources and potential friends for the child.

It also helps them recognize their children as parents.

"Grandma may voice her opinion, but it is her child's decision," Lesser says. "Often it's hard for parents to give up that old role; it may be the first time they see their child as an adult."

Frequently, grandparents do not understand the principle behind prepared childbirth or the idea of having a support person in the delivery room, Lesser says.

"Older women would've felt their husbands were a hindrance in delivery, or that they wouldn't (have been) able to control themselves with him around," Lesser says.

Feeding the baby is another area of controversy, she says.

"Breast feeding is promoted today as the best method; 20 to 30 years ago that was not happening yet. Also, not giving the infant any solid food until he is 4 to 6 months old is hard for grandmas to understand."

"She may believe that if you give the baby cereal in his formula it will help him sleep through the night. In reality, the baby will sleep all night when he is ready; and his system is not able to handle cereal until he is 4 to 6 months old," Lesser says.

Because of today's short hospital stays, two days for most normal deliveries — grandma's help at home the week after the birth can be important to the new mom, Lesser says.

"But even though grandma may want to hold and care for that little baby all the time, she should remember that mom and dad need time alone together with the baby," Lesser says.

The grandparents' class will be flexible enough to deal with the questions of each particular group, she says, with 12 to 15 groups being accommodated at each class. A tour of the child birthing area will be part of the program. Delivery need not be at Barnes for grandparents to attend the class.

The classes are scheduled once a month on the third or fourth Saturday. For more information or to register, call (314) MOMS (6667).

Aegean Sea cruise gives fine overview of Mediterranean

By Jeannie Block
Staff affiliate

Nestled between the east coast of Greece and Turkish Asia Minor, the Aegean Sea attracts cruise vacationers from throughout the world, looking to be caught up in the area's many centuries of romance and history — legend and reality.

Cruising this famous arm of the Mediterranean Sea can provide a broad overview of the region's modern and ancient treasures. There are mystical islands, like uninhabited sacred Delos, said to be the birthplace of the gods; and Santorini, a tall volcanic rise with a snow-white town on top, said to be the lost continent of Atlantis.

There is the pearl of the Aegean, charming Mykonos, made world famous by Jackie Onassis; and Crete and Rhodes, both large and thriving, with many points of interest.

On Crete, the magnificent Palace of Knossos is the focus on a tour of the sprawling ruins of the Minoan civilization. Rhodes is where the wondrous Colossus stood, guarding the harbor that centuries later would be valiantly defended by the Knights of St. John against ferocious Turks.

Among the intriguing Asia Minor port calls are Kusadasi, a seaside resort and gateway for Ephesus, where stark ruins of the excavated architectural masterpieces are awesome to behold; and Dikili, a sleepy Turkish fishing village near the ancient walled of Pergamum and the site of the Aesklepeion, where psychiatry was first practiced.

Tour guides accredited by their respective countries after many years of intensive study give perspective to the sites, telling fascinating stories that seem to bring life to the places and times.

Some itineraries also include the old Byzantine city of Istanbul (then Constantinople), crossroads of Asia and Europe, where a harmonious blending of the old and new makes for one of the most delightful sightseeing cities in the world. To get there, ships must traverse the narrow Dardanelles, past a towering white Turkish memorial to its World War heroes who decimated British invaders there in 1915.

Another happy byproduct of an Aegean cruise is the chance to taste the cosmopolitan life of Athens, Greece and to climb the Acropolis for an inspiring walk around the beautiful Parthenon and other ageless architectural delights. And if you have more time, comfortable three- and four-day bus tours from here to ancient cities like Olympia, site of the first Olympic Games, and Delphi, home of the mystic oracle, will add to your insight of ancient Grecian times.

Anticipating increased North American interest in the Aegean this year, Sun Line Cruises has announced that its three Greek-flagged ships, Stella Solaris, Stella Oceanis and Stella Maris, mainly will operate in these waters from March through October. They sail from the line's home base Piraeus, the port for Athens, on three- four-seve- and 14-day regional itineraries.

Sun Line, privately owned by the Keuseosoglou family, is a pioneer in Aegean waters and enjoys a widely held reputation as one of the class acts in the cruise industry. The ships and service are in the deluxe category, but prices are competitively moderate. The 800-passenger flag ship, Stella Solaris boasts the coveted five-star rating from the authoritative Fielding's World-wide Cruises.

Stella Solaris offers two seven-day schedules; one takes in the Greek islands and Turkey including Istanbul, the other sails to several islands and to Alexandria and Port Said, Egypt, and Ashdod, Israel. The two itineraries can be combined on some dates for a 14-day cruise.

Sun's smallest vessel, the yacht-like 180-passenger Stella Maris, provides a more intimate cruise experience on a somewhat similar seven-day tour of islands and Turkey. Stella Oceanis, only slightly larger than Stella Maris, carries 300 passengers on alternating three- and four-day sailings; the shorter one to four Greek islands, the longer one to five islands plus Kusadasi, Turkey.

Cabin rates on Stella Solaris range between $1,230 and $2,540; for the seven-day cruise, Stella Maris' six categories for seven days runs from $1,165 to $2,065. Stella Oceanis' eight categories go from $460 to $945 for three days, and $615 to $1,260 for four days. All prices are double occupancy and do not include air fare. For more information, contact your travel agent or Sun Line Cruises, 1 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10020.

THE GREEK ISLE of Santorini is, according to legend, the lost continent of Atlantis. Sun Line cruise ships call at this and other islands, such as Delos, Mykonos and Crete.

Even John Candy can't save dumb 'Who's Harry Crumb?'

It is rare indeed to watch John Candy in a movie and not find something to like. I thought Candy was at his best as the talkative shower-curtain-ring salesman who wouldn't leave Steve Martin's side in "Planes, Trains and Automobiles."

But in "Who's Harry Crumb?" Candy is in a movie so stupid, even his sizeable talents can't pull it out.

Stuck in Tulsa, Okla., private eye Crumb is a descendant of two generations of famous private investigators. His family's company, Crumb & Crumb, is a large, well-known detective firm in Los Angeles, handling only the most important cases. The problem is that the home office, run by the unscrupulous Eliot Draisen, played by Jeffrey Jones, has banished Harry to the Tulsa office just to keep him out of the way.

Harry gets summoned to Los Angeles when one of Crumb's better clients has his daughter kidnapped in a plot masterminded by Draisen. Draisen sends for Harry in the hopes that his stupidity will see to it that the crime is never solved and Draisen's plot never

Movie News

By Harry Hamm

uncovered.

The scenes in this movie never seem to fit together. Instead of flowing, the action hops. The physical humor is so predictable that it just isn't funny. Some of the sight gags can bring a giggle. Candy's face alone, his ability with an expression of failure, are worth a laugh now and then. But this project is so backward and inept it is almost embarrassing.

If you examine the talent behind this project, you will find a lot of inexperience, and it all shows up on the screen. Even Candy's costumes and make-up are overdone. His character's penchant for elaborate disguises make Candy (who also is executive director of the film) look like Milton Berle on a bad day.

Other performers trapped in this hapless project include Annie Fotts as Helen Dowling, an opportunistic nymphomaniac; Tim Thomerson as an airhead tennis instructor who beds down with Dowling; and the able character actor Barry Corbin who plays P.J. Downing, the wealthy father of the kidnapped girl.

Set in Los Angeles, "Who Is Harry Crumb?" actually was filmed in Vancouver, British Columbia. It is obvious while watching this film that all concerned thought they had the start of a series of comedies.

Rated PG 13 (adult romantic situations). Running time: 95 minutes. Rating based on four stars.

'Rain Man' might dominate Academy Award horse race

Unlike past '80s Academy Award winners, 1988 did not have many films with important substance like "Platoon," "Out of Africa" and "Chariots of Fire."

The two studios with the most hits in 1988, Disney/Touchstone Pictures and Paramount, were accused in some industry circles of appealing to the simpler instincts of moviegoers and foregoing any attempts to bring films of real artistic quality to the mass movie market.

You can bet that this year's Oscar telecast at 8 p.m. March 28, will rival the Super Bowl for number of domestic viewers and easily could be the most watched televised broadcast of 1989 in the world.

Who and what can you expect to hear about in the four major categories of competition when the nominations are announced at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 15 at a news conference that most national news-gathering agencies will cover? It always is a horse race but I don't mind staking my neck out a little with the following "fearless" predictions.

Best Film nominees will be "Rain Man," "Working Girl," "Mississippi Burning," "Who Framed Roger Rabbit?" and "Gorillas in the Mist." "Rain Man" is my favorite to win the award.

Nominees for Best Actress should be Melina Gaboriau for "Working Girl," Sigourney Weaver for "Gorillas in the Mist," Jodie Foster for "The Accused," Glenn Close for "Dangerous Liaisons" and Barbara Hershey for "Beaches." Close should win this award.

Dustin Hoffman should take the Best Actor award for "Rain Man," beating out Michael Keaton for "Clean and Sober," Gene Hackman for "Mississippi Burning," Tom Hanks for "Big" and Willem DaFoe for "Mississippi Burning." The nominees for Best Director should be Alan Parker for "Mississippi Burning,"

Charles Crichton for "A Fish Called Wanda," Robert Zemeckis for "Who Framed Roger Rabbit?" Barry Levinson for "Rain Man" and Mike Nichols for "Working Girl." Levinson is my pick to win the award.

Some Academy officials are concerned about the fact that they never can be sure that voting academy members are able to actually see all the films that deserve consideration for a nomination. Therefore, the academy members feel that sometimes worthy films and performances go unrewarded.

Also, some performers, nominated for one movie, actually are nominated because they appeared in several good films in one year and, therefore, their popularity and visibility is increased. For example, Michelle Pfeiffer won raves for three films in 1988, "Married to the Mob," "Tequila Sunrise" and "Dangerous Liaisons."

A similar circumstance exists for Hershey, who appeared last year in "A World Apart," "The Last Temptation of Christ" and "Beaches." DaFoe received great notices for "Mississippi Burning" and also for his work in the controversial film "The Last Temptation of Christ." It all makes a difference.

Long shots that could receive nominations are: "Best Film: 'Eight Men Out,'" "A Fish Called Wanda," "Things Change," "Dead Ringers" and "A Cry in the Dark."

"Best Actor: Tom Cruise for "Rain Man," Don Ameche for "Things Change," Jeff Bridges for "Flicker" and James Edward Almos for "Stand and Deliver."

"Best Actress: Shirley MacLaine for "Madame Sousatzka" and Jessica Lange for "Everybody's All American."

Theater tryouts set this month

Something for those who care

There never seems to be enough time for everything that must be done. In fact, time may be the scarcest commodity of the late '80s. One thing everyone should make time for is people for whom one cares.

For many people, this means entertaining friends at home. Sharing good food and lively conversation is the objective, but with greater demands on personal time, hospitality today calls for a streamlined approach.

Busy people who enjoy entertaining often make time for it by relying on easy, impressive entrees that can be prepared completely or partially in advance. Honey-Mustard Stuffed Cornish Hens are a delectable example. A richly-textured stuffing is combines whole grain barley, mushrooms, green onion and spinach.

The results are grand, but preparation is simple because the barley can be cooked up to a week in advance and stored in the refrigerator until it is time to blend and stuff. After a brushing with an easy glaze of Dijon mustard, white wine or orange juice and honey, the hens bake virtually unattended while host and guests enjoy themselves. With the hearty barley-vegetable stuffing, a simple salad is all that is needed to complete this special meal.

Today entertaining often means inviting friends to "graze" on finger foods and snacks, substantial enough to make a meal. Party hosts who once skewered, chopped and baked for hours in advance of guests' arrival now rely on deceptively-simple-homemade treats and supplement with carry-out foods.

One show-stopping hot appetizer is Crispy Buffalo Chicken Wings, spicy morsels traditionally served with crunchy celery sticks and a blue cheese salad dressing dip. Richly browned and full of flavor, the wings' crispy crust owes its crunch and nutritional bonus to oat flour, which can be blended well in advance from quick or old-fashioned oats. Preparation takes just minutes, and the wings bake without watching.

Crispy buffalo chicken wings

2 cups uncooked oats
2 1/2 lb. chicken wings (about 12 to 15 wings)
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup margarine or butter, melted
2 to 4 tsp. pepper sauce
Celery sticks
Blue cheese salad dressing

Blend oats in blender or food processor about one minute, stopping occasionally to stir.

Cut wings at each joint. Discard tips. Coat half the wings with oats. Dip in milk. Coat again with oats. Repeat with remaining wings.

Place on greased rack of broiler pan. Drizzle with combined margarine and pepper sauce. Bake 1 hour 15 minutes at 400° or until tender.

To serve, dip chicken wings and celery in salad dressing.

Makes 8 servings; 295 calories, 14 gm. carbohydrate, 26 gm. protein, 15 gm. fat, 197 mg. sodium, 64 mg. cholesterol, 21.4 gm. dietary fiber each.

Honey-mustard stuffed cornish hens

1 1/2 cups water
1/2 cup uncooked barley (See Note)
1/2 tsp. salt, if desired
1 cup thinly sliced mushrooms
1 cup sliced green onion
1 clove garlic, minced
2 tsp. margarine or butter
1 (10 oz.) pkg. frozen chopped spinach, thawed
Pinch pepper
4 (1 to 1 1/2 lb.) Rock Cornish hens
3 tbsp. Dijon mustard
3 tbsp. dry white wine or orange juice
2 tsp. oil
4 tsp. honey

Bring water to boil. Stir in barley and salt. Reduce heat. Cover. Simmer 50 to 60 minutes or until tender, stirring occasionally. Drain. Rinse hens. Pat dry. Trim excess fat.

Saute mushrooms, onion and garlic in margarine until tender. Add barley, spinach and pepper.

Stuff hens with barley mixture. Tie legs together with string. Place hens, breast-side up, on greased rack of broiler pan. Bake at 375° for 45 minutes.

Brush with combined mustard, wine, oil and honey. Continue baking 30 to 45 minutes, or until juices run clear when hen is pierced with fork, brushing with mustard mixture occasionally.

Makes 4 servings; 522 calories, 21 gm. carbohydrate, 60 gm. protein, 22 gm. fat, 407 mg. sodium, 202 mg. cholesterol, 5.8 gm. dietary fiber each.

Note: To substitute 1/2 cup quick barley, decrease water to 1 cup and simmer time to 10 to 12 minutes.

Add citrus peel for zesty ingredient

For a colorful and flavorful ingredient, start simply with orange or grapefruit rind, the zest of the fruit. Use a zester, grater or vegetable peeler to take off the rind without the bitter white part, then chop finely.

Grated peel keeps well if wrapped and frozen.

Candied citrus peel used as a garnish adds an interesting and sharp contrast, literally a surprise, to both sweet and savory dishes.

Recipes

Pistachio chicken in parchment

- 4 boneless (about 6 oz. each) chicken breast halves
- 1 cup leeks or green onions, diagonally sliced 1/2 inch
- 1 cup julienne-cut fresh green beans (See Note)
- 1 cup sliced cauliflower
- 1 cup carrots, diagonally sliced 1/8 inch
- 1 cup julienne-cut red bell pepper
- 4 sliced mushrooms
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine, softened
- 4 tsp. lemon juice
- 1/2 cup chopped pistachios
- 2 tbsp. grated parmesan cheese

Between 2 layers plastic wrap, pound chicken breasts 1/2-inch thick. Fold and cut four (12-inch) squares parchment paper or foil in heart shapes. Unfold. Place each piece chicken on each parchment heart.

Combine leeks, beans, cauliflower, carrots, red pepper and mushrooms. Divide in 4 portions. Place on each chicken breast. Season with salt and pepper.

Beat together butter and lemon juice. Stir in pistachios and cheese. Dot vegetables with butter mixture.

Fold other half of heart over vegetables. Seal edges with tightly creased folds. Place on baking sheet. Bake at 400° for 20 minutes or until chicken is cooked.

Remove from oven. Slash paper and fold back. Serve immediately.

Makes 4 servings.

Baking Tip: Chicken, vegetables and butter can be wrapped in parchment heart and refrigerated. Bake 10 minutes longer if frozen.

Note: Other combination of frozen mixed vegetables adding up to 1 cup can be substituted for beans, cauliflower and carrots.

Chocolate chip coffecake

- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 tsp. salt
- 2 pkg. dry yeast
- 2 cup warm water (105° to 115°)
- 2 eggs, beaten, at room temperature
- 3 cups flour
- 1/2 cup semisweet chocolate chips
- Coffecake Topping

Scald milk. Stir in butter, sugar and salt. Cool to lukewarm.

Sprinkle yeast in warm water in large, warm bowl. Stir until dissolved. Add lukewarm milk mixture, eggs and 2 cups flour. Beat at medium speed of electric mixer until smooth, about 15 to 30 seconds.

Stir in remaining 1 cup flour and chocolate chips until well blended, about 1 minute.

Turn into well-greased 10-inch tube pan with removable bottom or 9-inch springform pan. Cover. Let rise in warm, draft-free place until doubled in size, about 45 to 60 minutes.

Bake at 400° for 25 minutes. Remove from oven. Sprinkle with Coffecake Topping. Return to oven. Bake additional 15 minutes or until done.

Cool in pan 10 minutes. Remove from pan. Cool upright on wire rack.

Food processor instructions: With metal blade in place, combine flour, butter (cut up), sugar and salt in bowl. Process 5 to 10 seconds to combine.

Dissolve yeast in warm water.

With machine running, pour through feed tube. Combine eggs and milk. With machine running, pour mixture through feed tube in steady stream. Continue processing 30 seconds to knead batter. Stir in chocolate morsels.

Turn batter into prepared pan. Let rise. Bake as directed above.

Coffecake topping

- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup flour
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 tsp. cinnamon
- 1/2 cup semisweet chocolate chips
- 1/2 cup chopped pecans

Cut butter into flour. Stir in sugar, cinnamon, chocolate chips and nuts.

Food processor instructions: With metal blade in place, process flour, pecans, chocolate morsels, sugar, butter and cinnamon about 5 seconds until crumbly.

Truffle treasures

- 1/2 cup heavy cream
- 10 oz. white chocolate coating, finely chopped
- 2 tsp. chocolate cream liqueur
- 1 lb. white chocolate, 1 cup cocoa or 1 cup finely chopped nuts for dipping

Scald heavy cream in small saucepan. Remove from heat. Add 10 ounces white chocolate. Cover pan briefly to begin to melt chocolate. Stir until smooth.

Add liqueur. Blend well. Transfer mixture to small bowl. Refrigerate at least six hours or until cold and firm.

Use small ice cream scoop or two teaspoons to shape mixture in small balls. Place balls on waxedpaper covered cookie sheet. Chill 15 minutes. Use light touch to roll in balls. Keep refrigerated or frozen until ready to dip or roll.

Melt 1 1/2 pounds white chocolate in top of double boiler over warm water. Stir occasionally to hasten melting. Cool chocolate slightly by removing it from over water.

Use toothpick or hibachi stick to spear cold truffles and dip in melted chocolate. Tap stick on edge of pan to allow excess chocolate to drain away. Use fork to lift truffles off stick and deposit them on waxed-paper covered cookie sheet. Dust with cocoa. Refrigerate to set.

Store truffles in refrigerator or freezer until shortly before serving.

Serve at room temperature.

Note: If preferred, omit dipping procedure and roll in cocoa or chopped nuts.

Makes about 30 to 35 truffles.

ed or flat wooden stick in edge of cookie. Press 4 to 5 additional candies in top of each cookie. Bake at 350° about 12 minutes.

Cool on cookie sheet about 3 minutes. Remove to wire rack to cool thoroughly.

FRESH MUSHROOMS add touch of elegance to dishes that sound like everyday fare.

Fat-free, exotic mushrooms

Nothing dresses up an everyday dish like mushrooms. These elegant vegetables are simple to use, but they always add a special touch to a menu.

Best of all, cultivated mushrooms are virtually fat free, an important factor when keeping within dietary guidelines established by the American Institute for Cancer Research. Mushrooms provide additional nutritional benefits, including potassium, fiber, B-complex vitamins and phosphorus.

Cultivated mushrooms are found in practically every market today. Many stores now carry more exotic, flavorful varieties such as morel, chanterelle and shiitake. Select mushrooms that are moist but not mushy, with caps that are tightly closed over the gills on the underside of the cap. They should have a velvety feeling and not be shriveled or dry.

Fresh is best with mushrooms, but they can be stored five days or longer with adequate refrigeration, humidity and air circulation. A paper bag or a basket can be used, but avoid storing mushrooms in plastic. Clean mushrooms gently in cold water before using. Immediately blot them dry with paper towels. Trim off the rough ends with a sharp knife.

To cook mushrooms without adding fat, use small amounts of low-sodium bouillon, wine, juice or even water, instead of margarine, butter or oil. Use a heavy skillet without cover. Do not overcook them or the mushrooms' flavor and juices will be lost. Cook briefly—no more than four to five minutes—tossing them constantly.

Here is a mushroom recipe that includes the season's favorite poultry, although it will work with chicken or fish filets, too. This is deliciously different, featuring creole cooking with a mild flavor. Serve over brown rice, accompanied by raw vegetables or a salad, if desired.

Turkey and mushroom creole

- 1 lb. fresh mushrooms, sliced
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 1 cup water
- Pinch garlic powder
- 1 bay leaf
- 1 large green pepper, diced
- 1 (16 oz.) can stewed tomatoes, chopped
- 1 lb. boneless turkey breast slices, cutlets or tenderloin steaks (1/2 to 3/4 inch thick)

Place mushrooms, onion, water, garlic, bay leaf, green pepper and tomatoes in saucepan. Simmer, uncovered, 5 to 6 minutes.

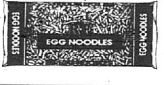

Place turkey in single layer in shallow baking dish. Remove bay leaf from sauce. Pour sauce over turkey, spreading evenly to cover. Bake, uncovered, at 375° about 15 minutes, or until done. If cutlets are thinner than stated, cook less time.

Yields 4 servings, 225 calories and 5 gm. fat each.

ADVERTISING New Doctors Discovery

Weight Loss Pill Approved for U.S. Gov't. Patent

'Lazy Way' to Lose Weight Already Sweeping U.S.

BEVERLY HILLS, CA (Special)—An amazing new weight loss pill called "fat-magnet" has recently been developed and perfected by two prominent doctors at a world famous hospital in Los Angeles that reportedly "guarantees" you steady fat loss and caloric reduction by simply taking their tested and proven new pill.

The U.S. government has just approved the doctors' claims for a hard-to-get patent that confirms "there has never been anything like their fat-bonding pill process before." It is a totally new major scientific breakthrough and is revolutionizing the weight loss industry.

You Can "Eat Normally" Best of all, "you can continue to eat your favorite foods and you don't have to change your normal eating habits. You can start losing fat and reduce calories from the very first day, until you achieve the ideal weight you desire without exercising."

Flushes Fat Out of Body The new pill is appropriately called the "fat-magnet" pill because it breaks into thousands of particles, each acting like a tiny magnet, "attracting" and trapping many times its size in undigested fat particles. Then all the trapped fat and calories are naturally "flushed" right out of your body because they cannot be absorbed.

Within 2 days you should notice a change in the color of your stool, caused by the fat particles being eliminated. "Automatically" Lose Fat According to one of the inventors, Dr. William Shell, heart specialist and associate professor of medicine at UCLA medical school, "the new fat-bonding process is a 'lazy way' to lose weight because the pills alone 'automatically' reduce calories by eliminating dietary fat. It is 100% safe and not a drug."

The fat-magnet pills are already sweeping the country, allowing reports of weight loss from formerly overweight people in all walks of life who are now slimmer, trimmer and more attractive again.

Now Available to the Public If you are trying to lose 20, 50, 100 pounds or more, you can order your supply of these "no-risk" highly successful fat-magnet pills directly from the doctors' exclusive manufacturer only (includes optional caloric reduction plan for even better results). Send $20 for a 90 pill supply (+ $3 handling), or $35 for a 180 pill supply (+ $3 handling), to: Fat-Magnet, 9016 Wilshire Blvd., Dept. WX71 Beverly Hills, CA 90211. (Unconditional money-back guarantee if not 100% satisfied.) Visa, MasterCard and American Express OK. (Send card number, expiry date and signature.) For fastest service for credit card orders ONLY call anytime 24 hours, toll free (800) 527-9700, ext. WX71.

Make frequent use of microwave for leisure

By Judy Eddy
Home economist

One resolution that makes sense any time of the year, whether it is old or new, is to use a microwave oven more to save time and energy.

Hopefully good reading material, like a new cookbook, was a holiday gift. What would make it best would be lots of helpful ideas for using a microwave oven.

Microwaved sandwiches are geared to be a hit with the family. They are quick, easily put together and a perfect complement to a steaming bowl of soup on chilly evenings.

For extra ease, save dishes from microwave-safe entrees for use again. They make sandwiches super-quick and dishwashing for this type of lunch can be non-existent.

White House croissant

- 1 croissant, cut in half lengthwise
- 1 oz. sliced turkey

Buy fresh shellfish

Look for the following signs of freshness when buying shellfish:

• A sea-breeze odor.
• Tightly closed shells for clams, mussels and oysters. If shells gape slightly, tap them with a knife to make certain they close. Discard any that do not.

• Smaller bay and calico scallops are usually creamy white, although there may be some normal light tan or pink coloration. Larger sea scallops are also generally creamy white, though they may show some normal light orange or pink color.

• A clear, slightly milky or light gray liquid surrounding freshly shucked oysters. Oysters are usually creamy white.

- 1 oz. dried sliced boiled ham
- 1 oz. Monterey Jack cheese, thinly sliced
- 1 cup Creamy Dijon Sauce or Basic White Sauce

Place croissant halves, cut-side up, moons facing out, on microwave-safe plate. Layer turkey, ham and cheese on each half. Cover with waxed paper. Cook on high 1 1/2 to 2 minutes, or until cheese melts. Pour hot Creamy Dijon or Basic White Sauce over top.

Makes 1 serving.

- 1 cup Creamy Dijon sauce
- 2 tsp. white wine
- 2 tsp. whipping cream
- 2 tsp. butter
- 2 tsp. Dijon mustard
- 1 tsp. tarragon

Combine wine, whipping cream, butter, mustard and tarragon in glass measure. Cover with plastic wrap. Cook on 50 percent power 2 to 3 minutes. Makes 1 cup.

- Basic white sauce
- 2 tsp. butter
- 2 tsp. flour
- 1 cup milk
- 1 tsp. seasoned salt
- Dash nutmeg

Melt butter in microwave-safe dish 30 seconds on high. Add flour, stirring to blend. Add milk, seasoned salt and nutmeg.

R & F
WHAT COULD BE MORE ITALIAN?

stirring to smoothness. Microwave on high 3 minutes. Stir. Microwave on high 1 1/2 to 2 minutes, or until thickened.

Hot Reuben sandwiches

- 2 (3 oz.) pkg. shaved ham or thinly sliced corned beef, shredded loosely
- 2 cups shredded Swiss cheese
- 1/2 cup dill weed
- 1 cup sauerkraut, drained
- 1/2 cup Russian dressing
- 8 to 12 slices rye bread

Combine meat, cheese, dill, sauerkraut and salad dressing. Toss lightly. Arrange half the bread slices on microwave platter. Cover bread with meat mixture. Microwave on 50 percent power 5 to 7 minutes or until cheese begins to melt. Top with remaining bread slices. Microwave on 50 percent power 1/2 to 1 minute to heat bread.

Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Recipes

Cherry-glazed chocolate torte

- 1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup flour
- 1/2 cup cocoa
- 1 tsp. baking powder
- 1/2 tsp. salt

Cream Layer
1 (21 oz.) can cherry pie filling

Grease bottom only of 9-inch springform pan. In large mixing bowl, blend butter, sugar and vanilla. Add eggs. Using spoon, beat well. Combine flour, cocoa, baking powder and salt. Gradually blend into egg mixture. Spread in prepared pan. Bake 25 to 30 minutes at 350° or until cake is set. Cake will be fudgy and not test done. Remove from oven. Cool in pan.

Prepare Cream Layer. Spread on top of cooled cake. Spread 1 cup cherry pie filling on Cream Layer. Chill several hours.

Loosen dessert from sides of pan. Remove sides. Cut in wedges. Serve with remaining pie filling.

Makes 10 to 12 servings.

Cream Layer: In small mixer bowl, beat 1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese softened, with 1 cup confectioner's sugar until combined. Gradually fold in 1 cup frozen non-dairy whipped topping, thawed, until well blended.

Mexican-style whitefish

- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 2 tsp. olive oil
- 1 medium tomato, seeded, chopped
- 1 cup Anaheim chilies, finely sliced
- 2 black olives, sliced (optional)
- 1 tsp. lime juice
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- Dash sugar
- 1 lb. cod, pollock or rockfish fillets, thawed if necessary
- 1 tsp. chopped cilantro
- Lime wedges

Saute onion in oil until tender. Add tomatoes, chilies, olives, lime juice, sugar, salt and pepper. Sauté 2 to 3 minutes.

Place fish in baking dish. Pour vegetables over fish. Bake at 350° for 20 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with fork. Garnish with cilantro. Serve with lime wedges.

Makes 4 servings.

Tip: Mexican-Style Whitefish can be served as cold salad with yogurt.

Raspberry frost Hawaiian

- 1 can (46 oz.) pineapple juice, chilled
- 1 pt. raspberry sorbet
- 1 qt. ginger ale, chilled
- 1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen raspberries

Combine half the pineapple juice, sorbet and ginger ale in blender. Whirl until light and frothy, about 1 minute. Pour into large punch bowl. Repeat with remaining amounts of these three ingredients.

Stir in undrained, thawed raspberries.

Makes about 3 quarts.

Variation: Substitute mandarin orange sorbet for raspberry sorbet and 1 thinly sliced orange for frozen raspberries.

Recently we have had some calls from some of our club members for clarification on how the CCA winners are calculated each week!

SMALL CLUBS: The small clubs are figured on a per-capita/per member basis. In other words the total amount of money that each club has for each week they sheet each total dollars spent per member of each small club. This is the per-capita/per member total.

LARGE CLUBS: The large clubs on the other hand are figured on the total amount of dollars spent on each tally sheet at each turn-in. This gives us a total dollar volume per turn-in per club as a whole. The highest dollar volume per turn-in is the top place winner each week.

If you have any further questions about how the winners are figured, please do not hesitate to call Val or I at WYV. We will be happy to help you. Only a few more turn-ins are left, so lets keep up the enthusiasm and the great work! Remember it will all "PAY OFF" in the end!!!!!! Remember to mark your calendars for Thursday March 16th at 7 pm for your PAY-OFF PARTY.

Presidents like cherries

Chocolate and cherries make a luscious combination. Not only does the cherry-red color add a special appetizing appeal to chocolate desserts, but their flavors are terrific together.

The slight tartness of cherries contrasts with the richness of numerous chocolate treats.

Presidential Chocolate Pie is sensationally smooth topped with a delectable cherry cream.

Made with cocoa, the chocolate filling is spooned into either a homemade or packaged crumb crust. Gelatin, whipped cream and cherry pie filling are combined to form a second cherry cream layer. The chocolate curl garnish and additional cherries hint of a sensational dessert beneath.

Japan enters luxury-car market

By Peter Bohr

Here they go again. Not content with smashing victories in the econo-box and the medium-priced-car arenas, the Japanese have set their sights on capturing the luxury-car market as well. And with this latest adventure, they enter the rarefied realm of BMW and Mercedes-Benz.

BMW's 7-Series cars and Mercedes-Benz's S-Class cars seem to be the primary targets of the new Japanese star ships. The Japanese battle plan is simple: Build cars as good as the best Teutonic "wunderwagens," and sell them for half the price. That means price tags of about $35,000 vs. $70,000 for a BMW 750iL, or just slightly less for a Mercedes 560SEL.

The new Japanese cars will come from Nissan and Toyota, and as Honda created the Acura division for its upscale cars, Nissan and Toyota will market their brand-new luxury cars under brand-new nameplates—Infiniti and Lexus, respectively.

Two Road & Track editors were recently allowed a peek at the new cars. Their reports follow.

«Here is Dorothy Clendenin's report from the Nissan Technical Center in Atsugi, Japan:

Nissan spent twice as much time designing the new Infiniti as it did any other car. To better understand the luxury-car concept—Nissan people don't typically drive such cars themselves—six of the company's engineers spent three months in the United States driving luxury cars, living with affluent families, and visiting important hotels, theaters and museums (the Guggenheim and Museum of Modern Art were favorites). During their travels, the basic layout and performance requirements of the Infiniti fell into place.

At around 3,900 pounds and 200 inches long, the four-door Infiniti sedan is both heavier and longer than a BMW 7-Series. Its power-plant is a 32-valve V8 that produces nearly 300 horsepower. That should take the car from 0 to 60 mph in 7.3 seconds, with a top speed of 144 mph.

Moreover, the Infiniti sedan is striking. It won't be mistaken for anything else. There are countless curves and oval shapes and few straight lines, although the design does come to a conservative conclusion at the rear.

On the road, the car's character is that of a luxury sedan, but with an emphasis on performance. A 135-mph run seems effortless. A quick stop from 125 mph was just that, with no dramas. Overall, the Infiniti has the feel of a heavy high-speed German touring car combined with the friendly companionship of an Italian sports car.

•Joe Ruzs saw the Lexus unveiled for the press in the posh Ritz-Carlton hotel in Laguna Niguel, Calif. Like the Infiniti, the Lexus will have its own dealer network and will go on sale this fall. Ruzs's report follows.

The LS 400 is the flagship of the Lexus line, and is almost identical in size to BMW's 750iL—and a lot bigger in every dimension than the Acura Legend sedan.

The press was not allowed to drive the car, but Toyota officials say it will also perform like the 750iL, with a 0 to 60 mph time of around 7.5 seconds, and a top speed of 155 mph.

To keep up with the big Bimmer's 5.0-liter V12 engine, the Lexus has a 4.6-liter V6 with four valves per cylinder. Yet the Lexus engine is fuel-efficient enough to escape the federal government's gas-guzzler tax.

The LS400 takes styling cues from both BMW and Mercedes-Benz sedans. Its interior is Euro-like as well, but retains the Japanese tradition of giving customers even more than they bargained for. In addition to the requisite leather upholstery and walnut trim, there's a dashboard with vacuum-fluorescent lighting and warning indicators that project messages onto the instrument faces, an air-bag restraint system, and power everything—from 10-way adjustable front seats to an optional cellular telephone with fingertip controls located on the steering wheel.

Referrals best way to select mechanic

By Peter Bohr

Judging from my mail, quite a few car owners are only slightly less terrified of visiting an auto repair shop than they are of going to a tax audit. Many women especially are fearful of having their purses and psyches pillaged and plundered by chauvinistic mechanics.

And with good reason. Fixing today's complicated cars can be a mysterious business, ripe with opportunities for thieves. Let me offer a few suggestions that should make you feel less vulnerable, no matter what your gender.

If your car is under warranty, you're pretty much married to an authorized dealer for service. But if you receive lousy service from, say, the Chevy dealer who sold you your Camaro, there's no reason you can't divorce him and go across town to another authorized Chevy dealer for service. All dealers must honor a manufacturer's warranty whether or not they originally sold the car.

Once your car is out of warranty, you have a couple of other options. You can take your car to an independent mechanic or to a specialist who only works on specific components—radiators, brakes, mufflers, and so on.

Independent mechanics and specialists often charge less than dealers. But before you turn any of them loose on your car, try to determine if they have a working knowledge of your kind of car, can quickly obtain the correct parts, and have any diagnostic equipment necessary to repair the complex electronic gadgets found in many models now.

How do you find a competent, trustworthy mechanic? There's a certain amount of trial and error involved. But recommendations are your best bet—from friends or strangers. If you see somebody in the shopping mall parking lot with a car like yours, ask where the car is serviced. In addition, mechanics often know the scoop on other mechanics in town; if you buy a Chevy and know a good Toyota mechanic, ask him to recommend someone who works on Chevs.

If you're not sure whether to trust a mechanic, watch while he works on your car. If that's not possible, you should at least expect the mechanic (or the dealer's service writer) to explain the problem in simple language and to show you any defective part while it's still on the car. If he's a good mechanic, he'll appreciate your interest.

Expect to receive a written estimate before any work is performed. It's always proper business practice, and in some states it's even the law. If you authorize a repair and the mechanic later finds more is involved, he should ask your permission to raise the estimate before he proceeds with the repair.

If a quote seems high, and if you don't completely trust the mechanic, determine exactly what he proposes to repair (there may be more work involved than you realize). Then telephone, or better yet, drive your car to one or two other mechanics and compare diagnoses and quotes.

You can also diplomatically ask to see the "flat-rate" book. Most every mechanic will have one. The book will specify the time it takes to perform a repair, according to the type of car. Most flat-rate books also give each job a letter grade ("A" is simple and "D" is tough). Multiply the time by the repair shop's hourly labor rate. (Of course, you'll also have to consider the cost of parts.) If the quote is near or below the flat rate, most likely it's fair.

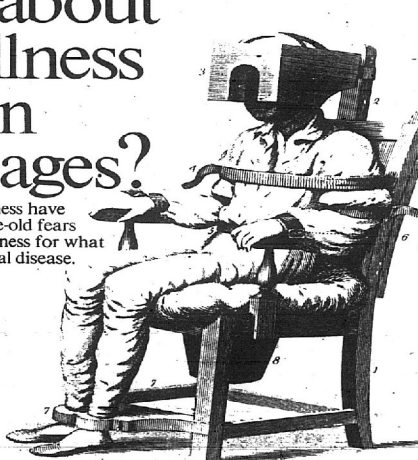

If you end up unhappy about repairs made under warranty by a dealer, don't hesitate to complain to the manufacturer's regional service representative. Your car's owner's manual will usually give an address.

If you are displeased about work you paid for, contact your state's bureau of automotive repair. As a last resort, small claims courts are generally sympathetic to car owners who can present a well-documented case of auto repair rip-off.

But when you do find an honest, competent mechanic, let him know you appreciate his work. Pay your bill on time. Buy him a Christmas present.

Davis going to state again; sets school record for wins

GRANITE CITY — Brent Davis killed three birds with one stone Saturday night. The Warrior senior left Edwardsville's Jeff Farley and former Warriors Doug Wilson and Jeff Cotter in the dust with his sectional championship victory.

Most importantly, Davis advanced to this weekend's state tournament in Champaign with his technical foul victory over Farley in the 125-pound final at Memorial Gymnasium. Davis also set a Granite City High School record for most wins in a season.

(See DAVIS, Page 4D)

Plager and Co. doom skaters

ST. LOUIS — There were no miracles for the hockey Warriors in this year's playoffs. Far from it.

The Parkway North Vikings made short order of Granite City, winning 9-1 on Monday at the North County rink to complete a two-game sweep of the first-round series of the Mid States Club Hockey Association. The Warriors were clobbered 10-0 by the Vikings in the first game of the series Saturday at the South County rink.

Warrior coach Garry Henson thought his team was fairly even with Parkway North, but there were three notable exceptions. Kevin Plager, the son of late Blues defenseman Barclay Plager, and his Swedish linemates Tom Virkkunen and Marco Buekevold were the big difference in both games.

Plager had hat tricks in both games. Virkkunen and Buekevold each had hat tricks in Saturday's game, as that one line accounted for nine of the 10 goals. Virkkunen had two goals and Buekevold had one in Monday's game. Jim Hawkins had the Warriors' only goal of the series, scoring in the second period Monday with assists going to Bill Gruwell and Chris Burns.

John Rains played the first two periods in goal Saturday and sophomore Robbie Nolan finished up. Rains played the whole game Monday as he finished up his high school career.

"You can't blame the goaltending," said Henson. "Kevin Plager almost killed Johnny a couple of times. Plager, Virkkunen and Buekevold all play on the same line and they're just great together. Outside of that line, the rest of the team isn't that good. We could play without them if it wasn't for that line."

The Warriors were without defenseman John Galinski on Saturday and missed forward Mike Naeve in both games.

"I don't think it would have made much of a difference," Henson said. "We had some chances, but I wasn't too pleased with what I saw. The guys making the mistakes were the ones who have been playing the longest."

Parkway North managed to shut down high-scoring Matt Schmetke and Jim Roberson as well. Both of them saw plenty of time on defense as the Warriors tried to hold off Plager and Co.

"I feel kind of sorry for Matt," Henson said. "He really didn't like losing like this. I need more kids who hate to lose like he does."

The Warriors finished at 9-14, losing their last five games.

Devils suffer lost weekend

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

BELLEVILLE — Clinton Harris has had better weekends.

First, he watched as Cairo knocked off the Red Devils 78-72 on Friday in a game Harris thought was determined as much by the officials as the players. Then he watched as the Devils played sluggishly in falling 96-45 to Sparta in the BAC Shootout on Saturday.

The pair of defeats dropped Venice to 17-6 with two regular-season games to go. Saturday's game, played before a sparse crowd at the BAC gym, was an uninspired effort that ended in a flurry of turnovers and some poor execution by the Devil offense.

"We weren't hustling at all," said Harris. "It was a dull game. Nobody seemed to be into it. You can't just expect to go in the last 12 seconds. You have to go into the beginning."

The Devils trailed for most of the game, but Erwin Claggett sank two free throws with 1:20 left for a 62-44 lead. Sparta turned the ball over with 37 seconds left, but the Devils threw it away themselves with 20 seconds left. The Bulldogs tried to push the ball up the court, but threw it away and the Devils called a timeout.

But 5-11 senior guard David...

Richardson wrestled the ball away from Daryl Jackson on the inbound play and broke for the hoop. Jackson fouled him from behind, and Richardson made both free throws with 17 seconds left to put Sparta ahead, 66-65.

The Devils called a timeout again with 12 seconds left, but Claggett's outside shot was short and the game ended with Hoses King trying to pin the ball off the floor as he battled with two Sparta players.

"After that last shot, I got that last shot," said Sparta coach Greg Jones, mindful that the sophomore had 19 points, including three three-pointers.

The Venice coaches didn't want Claggett shooting, either, but for a different reason.

"We had the play set up to get...

The only lead change of the game occurred late in the first half when the Trojans rebounded and dished the ball. Lancer senior Bernell Love stole the ball and took it in for a layup with 1:50 left to put his team up 29-22. The score was still close at the half as the Trojans led 33-30.

In the second half, the Trojans led the Trojans lead was cut to 19-17.

Lancers drop Trojans to 3-16

By Mike Blackshere

BELLEVILLE — It was evident from the start the Trojans would have difficulty posting a winning record. At 19 wins, the Trojans have had a difficult time winning — period.

They were 1-9 midway through the season when they gained the services of several ineligible players for the first time this season. The players and coaches were hopeful that the second half would be much more successful than the first half.

But Saturday the Trojans lost their fourth straight, 69-56, at Belleville East (18-12) and their record dropped to 3-16.

The Trojans started the game with perhaps their best first quarter of the year. They jumped out to a 13-2 lead. In that spurt, the Trojans did everything — rebounding, passing and shooting.

They could not handle the prosperity, however, as they relaxed defensively and committed a couple of turnovers which allowed the Lancers to cut into the lead. At the end of one quar-

Quick, hot-shooting Panthers trample Lady Warriors 73-40

By Dave Whaley

HIGHLAND — As the night went on, local fans who had come to root for the hometown team filed steadily out of the Highland High School gym. They seemed to carry the Cinderella hopes of the Lady Warriors with them.

The clock struck midnight not long after 8 p.m. Monday, and the Jerseyville Panthers were perfect in the role of the wicked stepisters. They ran circles around the Lady Warriors in a highly convincing 73-40 win in the Highland Sectional semifinal which ended Granite City's season at 10-13.

MLFS announces 16 charter franchises

By Carla Milburn Dodd

The Minor League Football System, headquartered in St. Louis, has attracted 16 charter franchises to its 1989 debut.

The professional football minor league, anchored by the St. Louis Gamblers and Pueblo (Colo.) Crusaders, will announce its final schedule and the final selection of teams to compete in this summer's schedule March 17.

"It is no longer a feasibility, a probability or a possibility it's gone, it's here, it's happened," Gamblers owner Ed Watkins said. "Come March 17, you'll know who the final teams are and the schedule. We're here."

The league will consist of a maximum of 26 teams. Communities which have secured territorial rights include Seattle and Portland, Wash. (each with a franchise); San Jose and Hayward, Calif.; Pueblo and Colorado Springs, Colo.; Tulsa, Okla.;

St. Louis; Birmingham, Ala.; Wilmington and Raleigh, N.C.; West Palm Beach, Fla.; Ottawa, Canada; Boston, Mass.; Fairfax, Va.; Dunmore, Penn.; and Omaha, Neb.

The league sprang from an idea by Watkins and Pueblo owner Dan DeRose, who met in the American Football Association Super Bowl in Pueblo in November. The two groups wanted to build a minor league system to the National Football League, much like the Continental Basketball Association and the major league baseball farm system.

"Prior to today, football was the only major sport without a minor league," MLFS Commissioner Roger Wehrli said. "The significance of today's announcement is that professional football will now have a minor league system in place from which it can develop and recruit undiscovered or overlooked talent."

Though the MLFS has not established a formal relationship with the NFL like the CBA has with the NBA, Watkins is hopeful that goal will be met in the near future.

An insurance package was proposed for the MLFS, and owners' workshops were conducted on Feb. 16-17 at the Omni Hotel in downtown St. Louis.

Players in the MLFS will not be paid, but a job-search program for athletes, a mandatory drug testing program and a required community service project for each team are part of the MLFS' ground rules for membership.

Charter owner Worth Skinner of the Seattle Express is looking forward to his team's entrance into the MLFS.

"We like what we've heard and seen," he said. "We'll be competing against higher caliber teams. Joining this league is just like skimming the cream off the milk."

"The whole theory behind it isn't the name NFL, but it is a chance for our players to get recognition from the NFL."

it inside to Hoses or Daryl," said assistant coach Rick Everage.

"We didn't do what we were supposed to do," said Harris. "Instead of making progress, we seem to be going in the other way. If we don't get our heads together, the season is going to be over pretty soon."

The Devils managed to keep it close in the first half despite Sparta's six three-pointers. Venice led only once at 17-16 early in the second quarter and trailed 36-32 at halftime. Claggett and Jackson gave the Devils a slim lead in the fourth quarter, but Neil James nailed a three-pointer to put Sparta back ahead with three with 4:25 left.

The Bulldogs maintained the lead until Claggett's free throws with 1:30 left, but it was Richardson's steal and two free throws that made the difference. Richardson finished with 24 points — including five three-pointers — to take game MVP honors.

"You can't blame it on one person," Harris said. "Every individual has to take some blame. We had a long trip last night, but these are young boys. We got back at 1 a.m., but they had plenty of time to get some sleep and get ready for this game."

stood around when we shouldn't have."

Ten of the Panthers' 12 players scored, led by 16 points from center Tammy Williams. Lisa Kanallakan had 14 points, Kathy Sinclair had 11 and Coffman added 10.

"This was our best shooting game of the year," said Jerseyville coach Denise Kelly. "We had good pressure defense right from the start."

The Panthers have won four straight regionals, and picked up their first sectional win. "Granite City might have been like we were before," said Kelly. "They might have been happy just to be here."

"We knew we had our work cut out," Hutchings said. "I know the girls are displeased. They wish they could have given them more of a taste."

Cavanaugh had her upper right leg wrapped to go with her customary wrap on the left knee. And Williams fell hard on her in the second quarter. But Cavanaugh hung in until the game's final minutes for 23 points.

"Jennifer was OK until about

Harris is planning to write the IHSA about the officiating in Cairo on Friday. Ronnie Henderson scored 36 points as the Pilots got the victory.

"He's a good player, but he was always pushing our guys out of the way on the way to the basket," Harris said. "I never say too much about the officiating, but this was too obvious, their coaches and fans knew it, too."

There were at least five times when the players were rolling around on the floor with the ball and no traveling was called. And one time Charles Miller was standing by their guy at the foul line and the guy just fell and Charles was called for a foul.

"We played pretty good considering we only lost by six with that officiating."

Jackson and King each had 22 points and Deves Farram had a career-high 20 points, including six three-pointers. But Claggett was held to only seven points. The Pilots shot 33 free throws, making 22 of them. Venice was 14 of 25 from the line.

The Devils hosted Bunker Hill in the final home game on Tuesday, then finish the regular season Friday with an 8 p.m. game at Alton Marquette. They will open regional play on Feb. 25 in Columbia.

the third quarter," Hutchings said. "She grinnaced when the girl fell on her and I thought that was it. But she stayed with it."

Kim Pawlak's effectiveness was limited for the last month with a bad ankle and she only scored two points Monday. Cavanaugh was the Granite City offense, and she was no match for the hot-shooting Panthers, who were extremely effective from the perimeter.

"Jerseyville has been here four times," Hutchings said. "They were tentative at first, but they got it going and there was nothing we could do. With Pawlak healthy, that really helps us against a press. But the way she is moving now I could take the ball from her."

Instead of having to say goodbye to some seniors, Hutchings can wait nine months and welcome everyone back next year.

"Everyone's coming back," he said. "Kim will have a much better senior year when she's healthy. I hope it works out that we can come back to the sectional and get another chance. The kids tried hard."

season as he upped his record to 44-1. Wilson (1971-72) and Cotter (1983-84) shared the previous record of 43.

For the second straight year, Davis was the only Warrior to earn a trip to state. Bryan Pritchett, the senior 119-pounder, had little trouble in the first two rounds, but dropped a 6-5 decision to eventual champion Abby Myers of Cahokia in the semifinals on Saturday.

Pritchett was eliminated with a 4-10 loss to Springfield South-east's Ron Mitra, who finished fourth in the semifinal wrestling-backs. Pritchett finished at 40-7 with 24 pins.

Junior Todd Hutchinson finished at 31-12 with 13 pins. He wrestled only once in the sectional, losing 9-3 on Friday to Civic Memorial's Ken Howell. Hutchinson was eliminated when Howell lost 10-0 in the next round to Springfield Lanphier's Andy Gardner, who eventually took first place.

After a tough 19-10 win over Wood River's Chuck Smith in Friday's quarterfinals, Davis took a 4-0 decision from Springfield's Mike Brest in Saturday afternoon's semifinals, before scoring the technical fall win over Farley.

Cahokia was the big winner in the sectional, advancing seven of the eight wrestlers it advanced to the sectional on to state. Joe Ward (103), Myers (119), Nelma Sims (145), Darnell Thomas (160) and Jon Drake (189) all took first place. Lance Taylor (130) and Fred Garrett (171) took second. Heavyweight Bart Hurd was the only Comanche in the sectional who failed to qualify. He finished fourth.

Cahokia will wrestle in the Granite City Team Sectional on Feb. 21 for a berth in the state team tournament in Franklin Park on Feb. 24-25.

In all, 23 of the 39 wrestlers who advanced out of the sectional to state came out of the Cahokia Regional.

ers had opened up a 44-36 lead when the Trojans tried to make a comeback. Aaron Jones, who led the Trojans with 16 points, hit a base-line jumper and Andre Mays (15 points) hit a short jumper to pull Madison to within 44-40 with 3:30 left in the third quarter. The Trojan offense went in the tank after that. Madison didn't score the rest of the quarter and trailed 49-40 heading into the final eight minutes.

The Lancers scored the first six points of the fourth quarter to open up a 15-point lead and they never looked back. Lancer coach Jim Reynolds has had some tough losses this year and was happy to get the win.

"We were all pumped up for our game last night and it turned out to be a heartbreaking loss (in double overtime to Collinsville)," Reynolds said. "We have had a lot of trouble with Saturday blues after tough losses on Friday nights."

"Our record is not indicative of our effort this season. We have had a lot of close losses."

The Lancers, who had four players in double figures, are a team with a bad record that has played some pretty good basketball this season. Unfortunately, there is not the case with the Trojans.

"After our early spurt in the game, we got excited and got in too big of a hurry," Collins said.

"In a timeout I told the players to be patient and run the offense until they got a good shot, even if it took five minutes."

Madison has been inconsistent all year and has had trouble putting together four good quarters. Saturday was no exception.

"It is like climbing to the top of a mountain and then sliding back down again," Collins added.

You won't find too many starters that are backed by a lifetime warranty. And you won't find too many that deserve one. Our Duracast Starter is one exception. First, inside every Duracast you'll find mostly brand new parts. And you should also know that every Duracast Starter goes through 40 quality control checks during assembly. Plus a full load output test. What all this means is that the Duracast is a truly exceptional starter. And a starter like that deserves a warranty like this. The Duracast Starter. Guaranteed for as long as you own your car.
